Spoken over [C] second time:

Yes, look inside, and if you just find yourself there, beware of the emptiness that comes when you loose yourself.
However, without loosing yourself you will never know what happiness means.

What is the day worth and what is the night like when your heart is empty?
You just pass through the time, you may be busy or idle, you may travel around the world,
and many things may seem suited to fill the emptiness.
But if it is not love, you will never be complete in yourself.

You cannot find love, but its love that will find you,
if, yes if there is room for love -
So: Leave room for love. Let there be room for love.
